CONSOLIDATED STOCK EXCHANGE AID TO SHADY DEALS

Exchange Makes New Ruling to Protect Public in Promotions.

BROKERS GET WARNING

Members Must Give Full Data of Any Concerns Floating Stock.

HOPE TO HALT FAILURES

Resolution Follows Efforts of 'New York Herald' to Reveal Financial Crooks.

The Consolidated Stock Exchange announced yesterday that its governing committee had adopted a new rule under which any member participating in the sale of securities of a promotion will be required to place full information regarding the operation before the recently created business welfare committee of the exchange.

The failure of any member to make such detailed returns shall be construed as a violation of section 3 of article 13 of the constitution, which is directed against acts "detrimental to the interests or welfare of the exchange," and carries the penalty of suspension or expulsion.

"This action is in line with the policy of the Consolidated Stock Exchange to do everything in its power to safeguard further the interests of that part of the investing public dealing with its members," said W. S. Silkworth, president. "Every promotion in which any member is engaged or proposes to engage will be carefully scrutinized by the business welfare committee, which will report to the board of governors."

Board to Issue Warnings.

"In case the participation of a member in a promotion is regarded as undesirable he will be so informed by the board. This does not mean that the exchange will give approval or disapproval to any promotion officially. It is not felt that this rule will work any hardship upon our members."

The action is a reform following an unprecedented series of bankruptcies of members and of complaints against many such members before the District Attorney. The new rule is born also of the wide publicity given by newspapers to the fallacies of those members and their business methods before failure.

A notable part of that publicity was a series of special articles published by THE NEW YORK HERALD showing the manner in which the Consolidated Stock Exchange permitted its members to do business and a recital of some of the most serious of those methods. One prominent defect pointed out by THE NEW YORK HERALD was just such a lack of close scrutiny as the exchange now undertakes to provide.

Resolution is Adopted.

A resolution adopted by the board of governors at its last meeting, follows: "Resolved that on and after November 1, 1922, any member of the exchange then engaged or intending to engage in promoting the sale to the public of stocks, bonds, notes, certificates, &c., of any company, whose securities are not traded in on this board, or who is participating or who plans to participate, directly or indirectly, in an underwriting of any such securities, shall submit to the secretary of the exchange in writing the following information:

"1. A complete statement of the company as required by the Consolidated Stock Exchange in considering applications for listing of securities.

"2. The underwriting price of said securities.

"3. Names of other brokers or promoters handling said securities.

"4. Number of shares taken over or intended to be taken over by such member of the exchange.

"5. Commission allowed or to be allowed on sales of such securities.

"6. How such securities are being offered or are to be offered to the public (copies of advertisements and all literature, form letters, &c.)

"7. If any application has been made to list said securities on any exchange (if so, on what exchange and status of application), and be it further

"Resolved that the secretary of the exchange shall submit all such information to the committee on business welfare of the Consolidated Stock Exchange for its consideration. Any member failing to report to the secretary, as directed in these resolutions, shall be reported to the board of governors for committing an act detrimental to the interests or welfare of the exchange."

SUMMONSES AGAINST TWO BROKERS DISMISSED

Magistrate Clears McKenna and Brown of Larceny.

Magistrate Smith in Tombs court yesterday dismissed a grand larceny summons against William H. McKenna and Algonon Brown, partners in the bankrupt firm of McKenna & Co., stock brokers. Benjamin Levine of 1073 East Twelfth street, Brooklyn, a customer, alleged that he paid $2,000 for Left stock through the uptown office of McKenna & Co., 25 West Forty-third street, but was unable to obtain delivery.

Magistrate Smith held that the complaint on failure to show that McKenna or Brown had personal knowledge of the transaction, which, Levine said, took place through an agent.

C. W. MORSE TESTIFIES IN SHIP BOARD CASE

Appears in Virginia Company Suit for $6,000,000.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Oct. 25.—Seizure by the Shipping Board of nine vessels belonging to the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation, the basis of suit by the corporation to recover $6,000,000, was due to alleged violations of contract by the shipbuilding company, according to testimony in Federal Court here today by Rear Admiral Benson, retired, a Commissioner and former chairman of the board. Admiral Benson asserted that the corporation had broken three clauses of its contract which was regarded as warranting the Shipping Board in taking over the boats involved.

Charles W. Morse of New York, former president of the Virginia corporation, was a witness today for brief technical details on contracts.

DR. W. W. KEEN SAYS DISEASE IS BEING CHECKED AT BIRTH

Noted Philadelphian Gets Medal for Conspicuous Contributions to Advancement of Surgery—Reviews Sixty Years of Science's Progress.

BOSTON, Oct. 25.—Dr. William W. Keen of Philadelphia to-night received the Henry Jacob Bigelow medal for conspicuous contribution to the advancement of surgery at a meeting of the Boston Surgical Society held in connection with the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons.

The award, the second made, was delivered by Dr. Harvey Cushing, president of the American College. The first award was made to Dr. William J. Mayo, the medal fund having been established in 1914.

Dr. Keen, who began his study of surgery in 1860, spoke on "Sixty Years of Surgery—1862 to 1922." When he was a medical student anatomy was first coming into use, methods of checking blood flow in operations were primitive and germs and germicides were unknown.

He mentioned as one of the first cases at which he assisted, an operation performed on an army officer who had been pierced with an Indian's arrow, clinical thermometers were making their advent and the physician observed fever by placing his hand on the patient's neck and arm. Hospitals, he said, were avoided as if leprosy instead of serving as the surgeon's best refuge.

"Vaccination (May 14, 1786), anaesthesia (October 16, 1846), and antisepsis are the three greatest blessings in the realm of medicine conferred on man since the Christian era began," said Dr. Keen. "Pastor's work was fundamental. Lister's genius applied Pasteur's discoveries to surgery. This wrought the greatest revolution surgery has ever witnessed. The germ theory of disease is no longer a theory but an abundantly proved fact.

"Our then so-called sanitation was ineffective because our real enemies—the bacteria—were unknown. Now sanitation is our principal reliance, because its sound basis is bacteriology.

"On the head, the chest and abdomen was writ large, 'Hands off,' and no wonder. Before the days of Lister death from meningitis, from violent pleurisy or pneumonia and from virulent pleurisy was almost always the result of any operation in these three cavities.

"One strange exception was trephining. Archaeologists have found even prehistoric skulls with multiple trephining openings in the same skull, the margins of the openings in the bone from previous operations being soundly healed.

"After a single battle in the Russian campaign, Napoleon's great surgeon, performed not less than 200 amputations. Today, of 200 similar cases, sometimes with wounds involving joints, we can conserve the majority of these useful limbs without amputation.

Passing to the exposition of recent surgical advances by which the head, the chest with its vital organs, the abdomen and even the spine are invaded by the surgeon's knife with only moderate danger in the most severe cases, Dr. Keen said:

"We are gradually throttling disease at its very birth and preventing its onslaught upon the health of the world."

At noon Prof. H. J. Hamburger of Groningen, Holland, noted Dutch physician, addressed a meeting of the Harvard Research Club at which delegates to the surgeons congress were present.

KARDOS & BURKE PUT DEBT AT $2,156,076

Bankruptcy Schedules List Assets of Known Value at $258,076.

Schedules in the bankruptcy of Kardos & Burke, brokers of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, were filed yesterday in the United States District Court, showing liabilities of $2,156,076. The assets, whose valuation is fixed, total $258,076.

The schedules were filed after a hearing before Referee Peter B. Olney, Jr., 68 William street, where creditors raised such a rumpus that the appointment of an accountant to go over the books of the firm was authorized over the protest of the trustee's attorney. Such an appointment heretofore has been left to the discretion of the trustee.

There were present twenty of twenty-five creditors whose claims amount to $165,000. Feeling against David W. Kahn of 120 Broadway, attorney for the trustee, was so strong that Benjamin Bulmer of 32 Nassau street, attorney for creditors present, appealed to the referee to direct Kahn to "display a more friendly attitude toward the creditors." The referee dismissed the request as improper. One of the creditors told Kahn: "You are the best attorney the bankrupt has."

Kahn opposed the demand for an accountant with the representation that those making the request were only "an infinitesimal part of the creditors." The referee obtained an estimate of their claims showing the $165,000 total, and replied:

"You may call that infinitesimal if you like, but I do not."

Mr. Olney fixed Wednesday as the date when final arrangements for an accountant's examination of the books would be made.

Mr. Ross said the bankrupts would welcome such an examination. He said his clients believe the assets to be $258,076, exclusive of real estate of John Burke, formerly Treasurer of the United States, partner with Kardos. The real estate is in North and South Dakota and Iowa. It has not been appraised. Kardos said the liability figure included $1,500,000 of unsecured claims. He explained that the expenses of his firm were $1,500,000 a year and that "looses in departments" were heavy. The "run" on the firm lasted a month, he said, before the firm went under, and in that month he paid out $1,500,000 to customers.

The schedule figures are not greatly different from the estimates at the time the involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed. The schedule figures are not greatly different from the estimates at the time the involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed.

Client Declares He Got Neither Stock Nor Money.

Three stock brokers, doing business as Morgan, Stern & Co., 30 Broad street, were arrested yesterday and arraigned in police court, Jamaica, L. I., on a charge of swindling Richard C. Sack of Jamaica out of about $20,000 worth of stock.

The brokers are Harry Klein and Simon S. Robins of Brooklyn and Harry Parker, 118 West Seventy-second street. They were held in $2,000 for hearing this morning.

Sack said on June 1 he gave them 1,885 shares of Empire Steel and Tube stock to sell. The brokers informed him, he said, that they could dispose of a block of 2,500 shares to a prospective customer, and he sent them $5,957.50 to buy the additional shares. In July, he said, they offered to exchange the stock for United Food Products on the plea that he was unable to dispose of it, and he consented. He said he had never been able to get stock or money.

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 25.—Gus Kahle, 27, of Dorothy, N. J., was shot and mortally wounded this morning in the woods near his home when a negro named Holly mistook him for a duck. Kahle was talking to his brother when the shot was fired. He was carried to the home of Dr. James at Mays Landing, where he died a short time later.

VOTE ON DR. FOSDICK PROTEST WAS SPLIT

Philadelphia Presbytery Stood 72 For, 21 Against Complaint.

OVERTURE MADE PUBLIC

Asks Special Action to Make First Church Preaching Conform.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—Nineteen members of the Presbytery of Philadelphia objected to the action of the Presbytery last week in sending an overture to the General Assembly protesting the sermons of the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick in preaching in the First Presbyterian Church, New York. Despite their protest the overture was authorized by a vote of 72 to 21.

The protesting members included the Rev. Dr. Alexander MacCall, Walter S. McInnes, the Rev. Dr. Edward Yates Hill, the Rev. Edward B. Shaw, the Rev. Dr. John A. MacCallum, Isaac Porter, the Rev. Dr. George E. Barnes, George W. Magee, the Rev. H. Alfred Boggs, the Rev. Clifford L. Lodge, the Rev. Arthur Phillips, Harry C. Troutman, the Rev. Herman P. Guhae, the Rev. Dr. John Allan Blair, Dr. Collin Foulkrod, the Rev. Dr. J. Gray Bolton, John Baxter, the Rev. Walter Lims and the Rev. Almer W. Karmell.

The overture, published this morning in the Presbytery, asks the General Assembly "to take special action as will require the preaching and teaching of the First Presbyterian Church of New York to conform to the system of doctrine taught in the confession of faith." Dr. Fosdick is not mentioned in the overture.

In addition, the Presbytery calls attention to a pledge made by commissioners representing the New York Presbytery at the General Assembly of 1918, at Atlantic City, when an overture from the Presbytery of Cincinnati asked that the New York Presbytery be excused from the Presbytery Church because of its action in licensing candidates for the ministry whose opinions did not conform to the confession of faith.

The overture points out that the commission of the New York Presbytery "expressed their pain and grief" that such summary action should be proposed, and upon their written pledge that the New York Presbytery would conform to the Presbytery standards the matter was dropped.

"Excuse" is the official language of the Presbyterian church for casting the New York Presbytery out of the Presbyterian family.

In his description of the proceedings at the adjourned meeting in Chambers-Wyck Church, at which the overture was adopted by Philadelphia Presbytery, the Rev. Dr. David S. Kennedy declares that the Rev. Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney originally intended his protest to be a fraternal communication to the New York Presbytery.

Objection by the liberals that the paper was in the nature of a complaint and therefore out of order, as on presbytery could not complain to another presbytery, both being courts of equal standing, made it necessary for the Philadelphia Presbytery to appeal to the superior Judiciary—the General Assembly.

ALLEGED CONFESSION CLEARS STOCK THEFT

Irving Miller, 23, of Jersey City, Said to Have Got Job So He Could Steal.

Irving Miller, alias "J. S. Gordon," 23, of 261 Hutton street, Jersey City, admitted last night, the police say, that he got a job as messenger with Clark, Childs & Co., brokers, of 165 Broadway, in order to make for himself an opportunity for security thefts. The opportunity came after he had been with the company only three days and when a thousand shares of negotiable stock of the Great Northern Railway Company were entrusted to him for delivery to a customer of the firm, he disappeared.

According to Miller's story he was the dupe of another man. He had never had any experience with brokerage houses, but one day he saw a man who gave him a job with a bond house, saying that he had a broker's license and that he would be disposed of at approximately 10 per cent. of their value. He went to work for Clark, Childs & Co. last June, under the name of J. S. Gordon.

On the first and second days I was intrusted with only securities of small value," said Miller. "But on the third day my employers turned over ten certificates of 100 shares each of the stock of the Great Northern to deliver to a customer. I took it directly to my home in Jersey City and sent for 'Moskowitz.'"

The stock at that time had a value of about $90,000. It is worth more than that now.

Miller said that "Moskowitz" stayed at his home for about a week, putting off his work to day the next day. He introduced him to the broker who would dispose of the stock. Finally he gave the stock to "Moskowitz," he said, and he left him with the stock. He never returned and Miller has not received anything from the stock, he declares.

One of the certificates has since been recovered, but its recovery did not throw any light on the identity of "Moskowitz," Henry Sperling, 30, of 23 Lexington avenue, formerly manager of the Harlem office of E. D. Dier & Co., a defunct brokerage concern, was arrested yesterday on order of the police. He had come into possession of the certificate through a legitimate transaction. He is now under $25,000 bail pending a Grand Jury investigation.

Detectives Mayer and Brown arrested Miller in his home last night, after he had been out of his home since June. He has a wife and a little boy.

"Had it not been for them I would have committed suicide," the prisoner told the police.

HERMIT FOUND DEAD UPON LONELY ROAD

'Mystery Man,' With $365 in Pockets, Believed Robbers' Victim.

EGG HARBOR, N. J., Oct. 25.—John Ditch, 80 years old, an eccentric and always considered a "mystery man," was found dead late last night.

Henry Lehman and August Weber, two young men returning from duck hunting, discovered the body ten feet from the main road between here and Green Bank. The body lay on its back, the arms stretched above the head. Finger nail gashes on both wrists were the only marks.

Twenty feet away was a burlap bag in which Ditch was taking home his weekly purchase of provisions. He made these trips on foot.

Ditch had in his overall pocket $365. Police are working on the theory that some one who had seen him exhibit the roll of bills while making purchases held him up on the lonely road.

The finger nail gashes on the wrists lead to this theory. Death followed, it is believed, as a result of heart failure in the struggle.

Ditch had $1,500 in a local bank. He arrived here about forty years ago. For thirty-eight years the hermit made his home in a dugout back in the swamps away from civilization. Ditch was well educated and spoke eight languages fluently. He had no relatives except a brother in New York, with whom he did not correspond. He was born in France. During a spell of good humor unusual with him he confided to an acquaintance here that he lived the hermit life because he had killed a sailor during a brawl in Spain.

WILL DEPORT SON, 10, LEAVING PARENTS HERE

Ruling Made in Case of American War Veteran's Child.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25.—Despite judicial sympathy the immigration laws were found inflexible to-day in the case of Michele Fornaballo, aged 10, who was ordered deported back to Italy from Ellis Island last summer in spite of the entreaties of his father and mother, who were allowed to remain.

The father, who served in the United States Army during the war, succeeded with a writ of habeas corpus in having the son released from a Genoa bound ship as she stopped at this port en route from New York. Ground for the deportation order was mental deficiency.

After indicating his sympathy for the family's plight Judge Dickinson, in the United States District Court, ruled that the decision of the Federal medical authorities is final, and suggested that if the father, mother and son desire to remain together the alternative is to return to their native country.

COL. MUSGRAVE FOUND DEAD

DOVERSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 25.—Lieut.-Col. Percy B. Musgrave, 52, was found dead in his room at the Court Inn here today with a bullet hole through his heart. His pistol was reported to have been found beside his body.

He was well known in New York and New England. He recently was appointed Lieutenant-Colonel in the Army Medical Corps and was organizing medical sanitation units.
